This Specimen

IS DEDICATED,
WITH THE UTMOST RESPECT,
BY HIS
MOST FAITHFUL,
AND OBLIGED FRIENDS,

Edmund Fry & Co.

To the Public.

THE unexpected, and very flattering demand, made for the first Edition of this Specimen, has obliged the Proprietors to hasten a second, enriched with a few Improvements, which they submit to the inspection of the Trade, as an earnest of the many Additions they propose to make thereto.

They will endeavour, by every laudable method, to draw to this Foundery, the liberal Encouragement of Printers and Booksellers in general; and are anxious to become Partakers of such Reward, as the Public may think due to any Improvers of this most useful, and important Art.

However desirous the Proprietor of another Foundery may be to persuade the Public into the Idea of a Superiority in his own favour, owing to RAPID Improvements for upwards of SIXTY Years; a little time may perhaps suffice to convince impartial and unbiassed Judges, that the very elegant Types of the WORSHIP-STREET MANUFACTORY, though they cannot indeed boast of their existence longer than about TWENTY Years! will yet rank as high in Beauty, Symmetry, and intrinsic Merit, as any other whatever, and insure equal Approbation from the Literati, not only in this Country, but in every Quarter of the Globe.

Warmed with the sincerest Gratitude for the distinguished Favours they have received, particularly since the publication of their first Book Specimen: the Proprietors assure their Friends and the Public, that they will, by unremitting Assiduity and Attention, endeavour to make it as perfect as possible; the HEBREWS being nearly finished, and all the sizes of GREEKS in great forwardness, besides many other curious Additions.

ABCDÐEFLPIKLMNOPQRSTUWVXYZÆ

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem. It is shown that the problem is of great importance in the theory of the differential equations of the second order. The problem is to find the general solution of the differential equation

$$y'' + p(x)y' + q(x)y = r(x)$$

where $p(x)$, $q(x)$ and $r(x)$ are functions of x . The general solution of this equation can be found by the method of variation of parameters. The method consists in assuming a particular solution of the form

$$y = u(x)y_1(x) + v(x)y_2(x)$$

where $y_1(x)$ and $y_2(x)$ are two linearly independent solutions of the homogeneous equation

$$y'' + p(x)y' + q(x)y = 0$$

and $u(x)$ and $v(x)$ are functions to be determined. The method of variation of parameters leads to a system of two linear equations for $u(x)$ and $v(x)$. The solution of this system gives the particular solution y . The general solution of the original equation is then obtained by adding the particular solution to the general solution of the homogeneous equation.

2. The second part of the paper is devoted to a detailed discussion of the method of variation of parameters. It is shown that the method can be applied to a wide class of differential equations. The method is based on the assumption that the particular solution can be written as a linear combination of two linearly independent solutions of the homogeneous equation. The method of variation of parameters leads to a system of two linear equations for the functions $u(x)$ and $v(x)$. The solution of this system gives the particular solution y . The general solution of the original equation is then obtained by adding the particular solution to the general solution of the homogeneous equation.

3. The third part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the applications of the method of variation of parameters. It is shown that the method can be applied to a wide class of differential equations. The method is based on the assumption that the particular solution can be written as a linear combination of two linearly independent solutions of the homogeneous equation.
